Greetings from the Graduate College!

As we wrap up the semester, please enjoy our final newsletter for the 2017-2018 academic year. This was a busy and exciting year in the Graduate College. With the support of graduate students, faculty, and staff the Graduate College was able to provide valuable learning experiences and build a stronger graduate community. We hosted events such as Professional Development Workshops, New Graduate Student Orientation for Students Enrolled in On Campus Programs, Social Mixers, Brown Bag Seminars, Thinking About Graduate School for undergraduate students, and a very successful 11th Annual Graduate Student Symposium.

Over 50 presenters and performers shared their scholarship and creativity with the university community as a part of the 11th Annual Graduate Student Symposium. Congratulations not only to the winners, but to everyone who participated in the Symposium and made it a very successful event. I would especially like to extend many thanks to the faculty who served as judges for the event. A list of winners, participants, and judges is included on the next pages. The Symposium Program is on our website at https://www.grad.uni.edu/graduate-student-symposium.

Special congratulations to all the students who will be graduating this week. I wish you good luck on your next adventures! Commencement ceremonies will be held on May 4th and May 5th in the McLeod Center. For more information review https://registrar.uni.edu/graduation-and-commencement. Also I would ask that you fill out the End of the Program Survey you received from me. Please complete this survey by May 15, 2018. The information on your graduate experience provides valuable feedback to the Graduate College.

As you reflect on this academic year, remember to express your gratitude to those who have positively impacted your UNI graduate experience.

Enjoy your summer,

Dr. Patrick Pease

Out of the Darkness Walk for Suicide Prevention

On April 14th, UNI's Counseling Program hosted the annual UNI Out of the Darkness Walk for Suicide Prevention. By the day of the walk, $24,022 was raised in support of the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP). The money donated will help raise awareness of suicide as well as invest in research, educational programs, advocacy for public policy, and support survivors of suicide loss. Approximately 150 individuals attended the walk, despite suboptimal weather conditions. The keynote speaker was a world-renowned mental health advocate Kevin Hines (pictured below), whose story about surviving a suicide attempt after jumping from the Golden Gate Bridge has reached millions of people. His story has inspired others to talk about mental health and provided hope for recovery for individuals across the globe. You can view Kevin's entire story at http://www.kevinhinesstory.com/. The committee chairs would like to thank everyone who participated in the walk as well as those who provided their generous donations for making a difference and helping to fight suicide. See related story on page 6.

Frank and Otelia Kraft Scholarship Recipient

The recipient of the Frank and Otelia Kraft Scholarship was Elizabeth Dickhut. Nominator Dr. David Grant stated he nominated her because of her outstanding leadership in the department in helping and motivating her fellow graduate students to submit conference proposals and attend national conferences. Her work has been presented both nationally and internationally both in the U.S. and Australia. He added that Elizabeth has scored high on her exams, excelled in coursework, and taught first-year composition courses to undergraduates. Elizabeth's scholarship focuses on gender representations in digital spaces and how it may help human rights and equality for women.
Alumni Recognition Project

The UNI Graduate College Outstanding Alumni Recognition Project was initiated by the Graduate College in 2013 to recognize distinguished alumni. Since its inception, nearly 100 alumni from over 30 graduate programs have been nominated by their faculty. In addition to receiving a Certificate of Recognition, individuals are highlighted in the Graduate College's display case located adjacent to 110 Lang. This visual display includes alumni photos with educational and employment information. Also included are reflections on their UNI graduate education experience. Each individual will also receive a photo of their displayed information.

Department heads and graduate coordinators were asked for their programs' nominations by the Graduate College in January 2018. The Graduate College then invited nominated alumni to the UNI Graduate College Outstanding Alumni Recognition Project.

The university community is invited to visit the display which will be rotated monthly. The following alumni are recognized:

Abbie Shew, Communication Studies graduate student, has completed two years of a Graduate Research Assistantship under Dr. Christopher Martin for the Science in the Media Project. The project, supported by the Roy J. Carver Charitable Trust, is designed to help journalists better cover science and environmental issues, particularly as they relate to Iowa. Abbie wrote abstracts for science research articles and helped to build other content for the website http://scienceinthemedia.org/. The project has so far resulted in two major journalism projects developed in partnership with Cedar Falls High School journalism students and IowaWatch, a nonprofit investigative journalism organization.

In 2017, as a result of these partnerships, Dr. Martin and Abbie developed an extensive report on nitrate levels in drinking water, particularly in Cedar Falls, and the story was published in the Waterloo-Cedar Falls Courier, The Des Moines Register, The Cedar Rapids Gazette, The Cedar Falls Tiger Hi-Line, and IowaWatch at http://www.iowawatch.org/2017/06/02/cedar-falls-fights-drinking-water-nitrates-battle/. A full investigative report regarding Iowa’s 333 PK-12 public school districts’ pesticide exposure risk is to be published in May 2018 by http://www.iowawatch.org/. Dr. Martin and Abbie found a connection with nearby croplands and an increase in pesticide exposure risk for students and teachers.

Robert Runkle Endowed Scholarship in Social Work:
The Robert Runkle Endowed Scholarship in Social Work was awarded to Rebecca Egen and Nicole Reilly. Rebecca Egen is currently completing her first year in the M.S.W. program. She has experience with assisted living facilities and elder care, ABA therapy techniques with individuals with autism, residential treatment facility care for youth, and is currently completing an internship with Allen Hospital in Waterloo. Nicole Reilly is a first generation college graduate and is in the M.S.W. Distance Education Program. Nicole started working with at risk children in high school and after graduate from college worked with children who have autism where she eventually became a Board Certified Assistant Behavior Analyst. She has been interning since August 2017 at Orchard Place’s Child Guidance Center in Des Moines. The Robert Runkle Endowed Scholarship in Social Work honors the memory of Robert Runkle, a prominent local social worker, and was established by Mr. Runkle’s wife, Sue, after Bob’s death in 2010. Bob was the executive director of Black Hawk-Grundy Mental Health Center for 16 years. This scholarship was awarded to a current M.S.W. student who intends to become a licensed social worker.

Outstanding Graduate Service Award:
Rebecca Brown was chosen, in consultation with the M.S.W. Student Social Work Association, to receive the Outstanding Graduate Service Award. She has exemplified outstanding service and dedication through university and community involvement. She is the president of the Masters of Social Work Student Association and has been active in bringing guest speakers to campus to share their work and wisdom with our campus community. Rebecca is currently interning with the United States Department of Veterans Affairs at the Coralville Out-Patient Mental Health Clinic as she prepares for her graduation in May 2018.

Outstanding Graduate Research Paper Award:
Rebecca Brown received the Outstanding Graduate Research Paper Award which recognizes remarkable scholarship by an M.S.W. student. Rebecca conducted a thorough literature review showing that among combat veterans ACE scores contributed to PTSD over and above combat stress.

Suicide: The Ripple Effect
On Monday, March 26th and Wednesday, March 28th, the Masters of Social Work Student Association (MSWSA) hosted a film screening of “Suicide: The Ripple Effect” at Marcus College Square Theatre in Cedar Falls. This film is a powerful documentary about the recovery story of Kevin Hines, who attempted suicide at the age 19 by jumping off the Golden Gate Bridge. The goal was to have an event where attendees learned the warning signs of a person experiencing a crisis and how to approach and support a person in crisis. More importantly however, the film focused on the positive ripple effects a suicide or suicide attempt has on people. You may be thinking to yourself: How can suicide or an attempted suicide positively effect people? The answer is simple according to Kevin:
1. People begin to share their personal stories of suicide.
2. Those same people begin to educate others in their community and schools about mental health and suicide prevention.
3. Those same people spark HOPE in others who may be struggling. The combination of these factors helps SAVE LIVES.

According to Kevin, people can heal and recover from mental illness and suicide attempts.

Approximately 175 people attended the event. The audience was made up of community members, high school and college students, teachers, counselors, and more. Each audience member was given a resource bag that contained information regarding crisis intervention services, candy, and tissues. After the 90 minute documentary, there was a panel discussion. The panel consisted of Tom Eachus, Executive Director of Black Hawk-Grundy Mental Health Center, Brian Nissen, UNI Suicide Prevention, Donna Kittrick, Waterloo Community School District, Karen Schatz, founder of the organization Make Life Swyter Promoting Kindness and Angela Gray, a holistic wellness coach.

The MSWSA partnered with the UNI Suicide Prevention program, the Waterloo Community School District, Alive and Running, and the Make Life Swyter Promoting Kindness organization to make this event possible.

UNI Career Services Job Board
The UNI Job Board, managed by Career Services, focuses on helping students and alumni locate contacts, jobs, and preprofessional experience. Providing access to over 4,300 employers and 5,000 recruiter contacts, the Job Board is a pathway to locate positions across the state of Iowa and US. With nearly 7,000 unique jobs posted annually (1,000 internships, 3,500 full-time, 2,500 additional experiences), UNI students and alumni will have opportunities to grow professionally, earn money, and gain new experiences.

The Job Board login uses the same login information as your email and MyUNIverse. You can access the Job Board through https://careerservices.uni.edu/, myUNIverse.uni.edu, or directly at https://c45-sib.symplicity.com/soo/. The Job Board is powered by Symplicity, the largest college to career connecting system in the United States. If you are graduating in May 2018 you will need to re-register as an alumni by going here: https://uni-csm.symplicity.com/students/. There is no charge for this service. Contact Career Services at (319)-273-6857 with any questions.

Iowa Conference on Communicative Disorders

The 27th Annual Iowa Conference on Communicative Disorders (ICCD) was held on Thursday, April 19th and Friday, April 20th at the Hilton Garden Inn in Cedar Falls. ICCD provides continuing education that is approved by the state of Iowa and American Speech-Language-Hearing Association for speech-language pathology professionals. Areas of emphasis include adult and pediatrics. University of Northern Iowa’s ICCD is one of the few conferences in the United States that is student-led and organized completely by undergraduate and graduate students. The conference co-chairs this year were Karlee Peyton, graduate student, and Hannah Brummel, undergraduate student, with the assistance of their faculty advisor Suzanne Dripps. There were 183 attendees, 118 of them being graduate and undergraduate students and 65 of them being professionals. Eleven professional speakers spoke on a variety of topics within the field of speech-language pathology, educating local professionals and UNI graduate and undergraduate students. Ten UNI graduate students also presented their research at the event.

School of Music

Megan Grey has advanced to the Semi-Finals round of the Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions in NYC. She will be one of 24 singers to compete on the Metropolitan Opera Stage for placement in the Final round which consists of performances of arias with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra. In June 2018, Megan will also be heading to San Francisco for the summer to take part in the Merola Opera Program as a Young Artist. She is one of 29 Young Artists selected from over 800 international applicants. Follow Megan’s adventures at www.facebook.com/greymezzo.

Department of Biology

Carmen Pellish, (Master of Science in Biology, May 2014) and Jessica Riebkes, (Master of Science, Biology May 2016) had papers accepted by Restoration Ecology. Both papers looked at the impact of granivores on the success of native tallgrass prairie restoration. Dr. Laura Jackson served as the research advisor for Carmen as well as for Jessica. Dr. Mark Sherrard brought both projects to fruition by preparing the graphs and reviewing the texts for publication. Carmen’s research quantified the impact of granivores on seed loss during prairie restoration by placing exclosures at the restoration site and comparing rates of seedling emergence between protected and non-protected areas. The following is the citation: Pellish C, Sherrard ME, Leytem P, Jackson L. L. Small vertebrate granivores reduce seedling emergence in native tallgrass prairie restoration. Restoration Ecology 26: 323-330. Jessica’s research tested whether the application of supplemental birdseed could effectively deter granivores from eating prairie seed during a restoration. She found that the application of supplemental seed successfully increased early seedling establishment at three restoration sites. The following is the citation: Riebkes J. L., Sherrard M. E. and Jackson L. L. Supplemental seed increases seedling establishment in roadside native prairie restoration. Restoration Ecology Online Early View Section at https://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/abs/10.1111/rec.12699.

Women’s and Gender Studies Program

Alexis St. Clare, the Women’s and Gender Studies Outstanding Graduate Paper Award winner, presented “Anthropocentrism, The Other Face of Patriarchy: An Investigation into Patriarchal Attitudes and Perceptions of Non-Human Nature” at the CROW Forum on April 2 in Rod Library, Room 287. Alexis earned her Master of Arts degree in Women’s and Gender Studies (WGS) from UNI in December 2017 and is currently serving as an adjunct instructor in WGS.

Department of Languages and Literatures

Elizabeth Dickhut, graduate student seeking her M.A. in English: English Studies, was funded to attend the Golden Key International Honour Society’s Asia Summit on February 8-10, 2018 in Melbourne, Australia. The activities included networking luncheons, speakers on the UN Sustainability Initiative, and a historical/cultural tour of the city.

School of Applied Human Sciences

Sarah Elm, a graduate student seeking her M.A. in School Counseling, was recently selected by the Iowa School Counselor Association Executive Committee to serve as the Graduate Student Chair. She will serve a year term in which she will facilitate communication with student organizations affiliated with the Iowa School Counselor Association.
Student Accolades

Department of Psychology

The 2018 Society for Personality and Social Psychology Annual Convention was held March 1-3 in Atlanta, GA.

Emma Welch and Dr. Adam Butler examined the effects of perceived discrimination on health outcomes in racial, gender and sexual orientation minorities, as moderated by social support and identity importance. Hailey Hatch and Dr. Helen Harton presented research examining region (i.e. U.S. Midwest vs. South) as a moderator between moral foundations and attitudes toward evolution and gay men/lesbian women.

Alba Karuni (pictured right) and Dr. Helen Harton presented their research on gender, STEM major choice, role congruity theory, and retention, finding that men tend to choose STEM majors more than women, and that men are better retained in STEM majors than women.

Melanie Reyes and her co-authors from Florida State University, Dr. Andrea Meltzer and Dr. James McNulty, presented their work on personality as predictors of sexual infidelity. Melanie won a $500 graduate travel award.

Alivia Zubrod presented her work examining the relationship between negative emotionality and dimensions of psychological well-being, finding that different aspects of mindfulness mediated these relationships.

Department of Communication Studies

Mir Ashfaquzzaman and Ismael Quinones presented at the Central States Communication Association Annual Convention held April 4-7 in Milwaukee, WI.

Mir Ashfaquzzaman, who earned his Master of Arts Degree in Communication Studies with an Emphasis in Mass Communication in December 2017, presented his competitively selected research entitled, "Analyzing Rana Plaza Crisis Discourse from a Postcolonial Perspective: Implications for Identity and Crisis Communication Studies." Mir has been accepted to The University of Iowa’s Ph.D. program in Communication Studies beginning Fall 2018.

Ismael Quinones, graduate student enrolled in the Communication Studies Program, was honored twice at the conference for his work. His paper "How Hamilton Tries to Please Everybody and Succeeds: A Mythic Analysis of the American Dream" received the award for Top Graduate Student Debut Paper Submission in the Rhetorical Theory and Analysis Division. The paper, developed in Dr. Ryan McGeough’s Rhetoric and Civic Culture Class, was also recognized on the Past Officer’s Debut Panel. That panel highlights the top debut papers from across the conference and is intended to showcase some of the most promising work of the discipline’s graduate students.

Abbie Shew, a graduate student in Communication Studies, has been accepted the Ph.D. program in the Department of Communication at the University of Washington. Since Fall 2016, she has been a graduate assistant for the Science in the Media project, under the project leader, Dr. Christopher Martin, in the Department of Communication Studies. During the summer of 2017, Abbie was a Wallace-Carver Fellow and Food Safety Education at the U.S. Department of Agriculture-FSIS, in Washington, D.C. As an undergraduate student at UNI she received a Bachelor of Science in Biology, serving as a research assistant in Dr. Michael Walter’s lab, and a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy. Abbie was a leading member of the UNI’s Collegiate Debate Team from 2012-2016 and served as a Senator and Cabinet Member in the Northern Iowa Student Government.
